The user confirms the completion and accuracy of the information provided and also declares that all requested information has been filled in correctly and truthfully.

Consent

By completing the sections on this page, the user declares that they give their consent for the further processing of the information provided by them by Albsig, solely for the purpose of using the service for which the user has voluntarily provided their personal data.

At any time after the user has voluntarily provided the requested information in these specific fields, the user has the right, through a request to Albsig, to access this data, as well as to request its blocking, correction, or deletion in accordance with the provisions set out in Law no. 124/2024 "On Personal Data Protection" and the GDPR.

If you withdraw from this application before clicking the "Send Message" button, by choosing not to proceed further, in this case your personal data will not be stored by Albsig. Your personal data will be stored only within the framework of your relationship as a client with Albsig. For any complaints regarding the protection of personal data, you may обратиться to the "Commissioner for the Right to Information and Protection of Personal Data."
